

Imposter Syndrome - A Wicked Problem to Solve A Public Service Network 30% Club Virtual Masterclass

Wednesday 29th June at 12pm – 1pm on Zoom

Masterclass Overview

The term 'Imposter syndrome' was first coined in the 1970s and refers to the phenomenon of doubting your abilities and feeling like a fraud, often despite significant academic or professional achievements. Research indicates that imposter syndrome is experienced by many successful people, disproportionately affecting high achievers, women and people from under-represented groups..

Who should attend?

This practical session will operate as a workshop for male and female leaders and all aspiring leaders who would like to build out their personal skillset.

Click here to register

SPEAKERS

Anne Clarke,

Anne leads the delivery of client programmes for learning and development company ABSTRACT, including the award-winning Career Management Development Programme, ACCELERATE, successfully delivered since 2013 to well over 1000 women across many organisations countries, covering topics that include Building Superior Confidence, Organisational Politics, Personal Brand and Profile, Attracting Sponsors and Mentors and Boardroom Readiness.

Mark Fryer, Commercial Director

Mark is a Director and board member of ABSTRACT. He enjoyed a successful 20 year career in banking and financial services during which time he created and led a Private Banking and Wealth Management division of over 1, 000 people.

About ABSTRACT

ABSTRACT specialises in improving business through people by creating and delivering award-winning Learning and Development programmes. They work with clients in the UK, Ireland and internationally. They also present at business events, conferences and expert forums on these topics, offering experience, expertise and insight as speakers, hosts or panel members. This masterclass has been donated as part of their support for the 30% Club Ireland.